THE

SOUTH-CAROLINA GAZETTE,

Containing the freshest Advices, Foreign and Domestick.

MONDAY, February 4th, 1745. [Numb. 567]

Mr. Timothy,

TILL you can afford a Place in your Gazette, for inserting several authentick Papers, touching Mr. Whitefield's late Reception in New England, as viz. the Testimonies of HARVARD-COLLEGE, and of several Associations of the most learned, pious, and judicious Ministers in that Colony against him; be pleased to insert in your next, the following short Extract from the Boston Evening Post, No. 485, and you'll much oblige,

Your most obedient Servant, &c.

THE great Leaders and Managers in the late Times, being sensible that Numbers began to be weary of our religious Confusions, and consequently disgusted at Mr. Whitefield, as the Author of them, have thought themselves concern'd in this critical Conjuncture, to soften down People's Minds by Craft and Artifice, and so to prepare the Way for his Entrance among us. Accordingly, on the News of his Arrival at York, it was given out immediately, that he was dangerously sick, and apprehended nigh unto Death; the Consequence of which was, to try People's Tempers and raise their Passions. Many Notes or Bills were put up at the Evening Lectures, to ask Prayers on his Account; agreeable to which, some zealous Ministers, who had been building on his Foundation, pray'd earnestly for the Continuance of his precious Life and gave Thanks for the Good done by him in his former Visit. And that no Argument should be wanting that might probably gain their Point, it was industriously spread abroad, that Mr Whitefield was now come in another Spirit, in the Spirit of Meekness, Love and Peace; that he declared against Disorders and Separations, and would preach against them, and endeavour to heal our Divisions! All this, I confess, is plausible enough, if it were likely to be true: But that it is not so, will be evident if it be considered, that he has carried on the same Work and promoted the same Disorders in Scotland, and elsewhere, since he went from America; That P——y, P—— ns, B—— l, &c. furious Zealots, moulded into his very Temper, were the Men, as I am informed, who first met him at his coming; and 'tis well known that several of the most eminent of the Separatists travelled to York to congratulate him on his Arrival.

And now, can any one imagine, that the old Leaven is purged out? That Mr. Whitefield will preach against Disorders? That he will pull down a Building which is the Work of his own Hands? — This surely can be only a specious Pretence to deceive unwary People, and more securely and effectually to promote and carry on the Confusions formerly begun by him. In short, the plain Design of all this seems to be that People might the more readily consent that their Ministers should admit him into their Pulpits — And that the aforementioned Artifices might become more extensive, the Author of the Christian History has lately taken Care to give the Publick some important Hints concerning them — But, after all, these are but thin Disguises; People will exercise Reason and Common Sense; and Ministers who regard their own Reputation, and the Safety of those under their Charge, will, I hope, effectually guard their Pulpits against him, till he has solemnly and publickly retracted, and professed his Abhorrence of the many erroneous Opinions and disorderly Practices he has been instrumental of propagating thro' the Land.

In particular, That they give no Countenance to his Preaching, 'till he has manifested his Repentance for his intolerable Pride and Arrogance, in going about from one Country to another in the Manner he has done, as if he was the Vice-gerent of Jesus Christ, and that all Power in Earth was committed to him; and, that Ministers of all Denominations were to receive their Orders from, and be accountable to him. And,

That he deeply bewail the vast Mischief he has done to the Interest of true Religion in this and in the neighbouring Governments, in and since his former Visit to them.

That he publickly retract his slanderous and uncharitable Speeches concerning some great and good Men, particularly Arch-Bishop Tillotson.

That he ask Pardon of the Governours of the College, for the Affronts he has offered to them.

That he acknowledge his ungrateful and injurious Treatment of the Boston Ministers; particularly in sending Mr. Tennent to insult them to their Faces; for tho' some of them tamely submitted to the Abuse, and were willing to be nothing, that Whitefield might be All; yet surely this can be no sufficient Plea in his Excuse.

Finally, That he render a fair and just Account of the great Sums of Money, and Quantity of Goods collected by him, under Pretence of supporting his Orphan-House at Georgia.

These are the Terms and Conditions on which alone he ought to be admitted to preach among us. And those whose peculiar Business it is, if they would approve themselves wise and faithful in the Stations wherein Divine Providence has set them, will, I hope, conduct themselves accordingly.

I shall finish this Letter, with those Words of St Paul, Rom. xvi. 17, 18. Now I beseech you, Brethren, mark them which cause Divisions and Offences, contrary to the Doctrine which ye have learned; and avoid them. For they that are such, serve not our Lord Jesus Christ, but their own Belly; and by good Words and fair Speeches deceive the Hearts of the simple.

GERMANY.

THE Queen of Hungary has further experienced the Zeal of her Subjects in that Kingdom, the Nobles having resolved personally to take up Arms to assist her.

The Report still continues that the Saxons will march to the Assistance of the Queen of Hungary. But some believe their Troops are in Motion only to guard their Frontiers, and the King of Prussia does not seem under the least Apprehension, having given Leave for the Passage of 5000 Uhlans from Poland thro' Silesia; but whether this is true or not we cannot know, his Majesty having forbid all his Subjects under the most severe Penalties to write, or print, any thing relating to his present Entreprize; and Baron Pollnitz is actually in Custody.

ITALY.

Notwithstanding the different Accounts of the Action at Villani, and for the Success of which, or rather for the Escape of Don Carlos, Te Deum was sung at Madrid, the Austrians appear to have had the Advantage, since the combined Army has been obliged to decamp for want of Cavalry and Provisions, or to hinder an Insurrection in Naples, in Favour of the Queen of Hungary, to which the Populace might be excited on the Approach of the British Fleet.

In Piedmont the Spaniards treat the Peasants with the utmost Cruelty, while the Siege of Coni is carried on with Vigour, and is batter'd with Mortars call'd Cominges, carrying Bombs of 500 lb. Weight.

Milan, Sept. 14 N. S. The Republick of Genoa had raised an Army of 25,000 Men, the greatest Part of which are lodged in the Churches, for want of Barracks, and are to be commanded by a Spanish

Spanish General, Don Luke Spinola, Vice Roy of Arragon, who, with 13 or 14,000 Men is to beſiege Tortona, according to a Treaty ſecretly made with Spain, by which Don Philip is to have Corſica, and take the Title of King, in Exchange for the Coaſt and Country of Nice; which France will guaranty to the Genoeſe, and for her Recompence is to have the Dutchy of Savoy.

There has been an obſtinate Action at Chivas, about 8 Miles from Coni, between the Allies and the Piedmonteſe; who being defeated, the former ſet fire to the Place; and it was reported, that on the 5th of this Month 6 000 Spaniſh Troops, on board 40 Tranſports, eſcorted by ſix Sail of Men of War, made a Deſcent on the Iſland of Sardinia; of which they became immediately Maſters, the Inhabitants being very well known to have a great Affection for the Spaniſh Government.

FLANDERS.

The Army of the Allies not being able to undertake any Thing, but having left ſeveral Parties, and about 15 00 Horſes, and beginning to be under Difficulties for want of Forage, broke up on the 12th from Chateau d'Anſtein St. Guin, &c. in order to return to their ſtrong Camp by the Sobrid, and thence to Winter Quarters having ſent their heavy Baggage to Ghent. But as Count Saxe had been reinforced by 30,000 Men, it was conjectured, that he would not let ſlip the Advantage to be made of a Superiority of Forces, tho' the Allies did; eſpecially as his Troops have been flush'd with Succeſs in ſeveral Skirmiſhes and daily ſpirited up and diverted at the Expences of the Allies, and of the Engliſh in particular, by a Company of Comedians from Paris. These people perform a humourous Play, where Harlequin in Scene 1 repreſents an Engliſh Officer whom Scaramouch aſks, where he is going? To the Siege of Liſle (anſwers he) which we ſhall take in 5 Days. Scar. You have not a ſufficient Force. Harl. Don't mind that, — one Engliſh Man will beat five French, Huzza Boys. Scar. But where is your Artillery? Harl. Odd ſo, (ſcratching his Head) we have forgot it —Let me think—it is at Oſtend or Antwerp, if it has eſcaped the late Storm — In the ſucceeding Scenes, Harlequin comes in with his Arms and one Leg off, but declares, he ſtill riſes to Preferment. Scar. aſks him in Scene 4, what are you now? Harl. — I have the Pleaſure to ſee myſelf a Lieu General, — but muſt lament one Thing; the French Dogs, whom we have beaten, have run away with all our Horſes. Scar. Very ſtrange indeed! Supply yourſelves from the D—h and H——n; for they dare not Uſe them —In the laſt Scene, Harlequin comes in without a Head. Scar. What no you call yourſelf now Monſieur? Harl. I am General of the —— Scar. True, Monſieur Harlequin, you have two Wooden Arms, and one Wooden Leg, but you muſt have another Qualification yet, that is, a Wooden Head.

The Fortifications at Dunkirk having been carried on with the utmoſt Diligence, ſeven Batteries are already compleated, and the Magazines fill'd with all ſorts of military Stores, among them 20,000 Muſkets.
